Frank vs. God

Saturday, Oct. 6
8:00 P.M.

All rise ... for the best spiritual comedy in years! Former hotshot lawyer David Frank's house is destroyed by a tornado, but the insurance company denies coverage for "an act of God." Determined to make someone pay, he chooses to serve God -- with a lawsuit.

David's legal antics turn the courtroom into a riveting spectacle as he cross-examines representatives of the world's religions. But when he meets his match -- charming and intelligent defense lawyer Rachel -- sparks fly and his assumptions are challenged. Raises questions about faith and religion with a light-hearted tone and an open mind.

The screening will be followed with remarks via Skype by the film's director, Stewart Schill. Schill directed Tony Curtis in brittle Glory, which garnered great reviews for one of Curtis' final performances. His award-winning short I Hate Musicals was enormously popular with film festival audiences and was one of the most downloaded films on iTunes. His original story The Space Between Us is now a major motion picture starring Gary Oldman.
